Okii,

The Colony Kindergarten joined us during P.E. We gathered flat rocks to paint during Art. The students enjoyed painting; and miraculously the classroom stayed very clean. Each student asked me to stash their painted rock at the library to see if someone will find their rock. We are hoping to inspire others, and we hope this idea will be popular like in Great Falls. We are staying creative at the Glendale Colony.

Greetings from Big Sky Colony! We had a crazy month of March with the wind and snow days while trying to stay on track and true to our routine. We welcomed the Kindergarteners at the beginning of the month and I am so impressed by how hard they are working (mastered 15 sight words already!) and how well the older students are at helping them learn how to behave in “English” school. For the month of March we had a 97% attendance rate which is much improved from February. The students made a craft after learning about the concept of positive and negative space in art which turned out great but was much more work for me than I had anticipated.

We hope you have a nice, restful Spring Break and will be looking forward to finishing out the last quarter of the school year strong when we return to school.

Respectfully,
Jackie Gregoire
