New School Planning

- Planning is based on BOE policies 3.211 & 3.207 and past practices.
- The Board will present the need for a new school to the City Council. The City Council will substantiate the need. Funding for the property may be sought at this point.
- Historically the BOE will begin searching for a school site once the City Council has substantiated the need for a new school.
- The Board will need to select an Architect through the RFQ process.
- The architect will present a project concept and estimate of cost to the Board of Education.
- The BOE will present the project concept along with cost estimate to the City Council along with a request for funding.
- Upon receiving a funding commitment from the City Council the BOE will have the project bid.
- After receiving the final bid, the Board will request final funding.

Possible Use of Present Administration Building

If the present administration building is converted to educational space there are major changes that would have to be made to meet code requirements and the building would have to be completely updated which could cost as much as 1.5 million dollars.

If we keep the Administration building as a professional space and assembly area then the building would not have to be completely remodeled and could still be used for the students at Ross and Yates to have a performance area. PTOs could meet, Principals could use the building for staff meetings and Transportation could use it for bus driver meetings. The east wall of the present board room could be removed and finishes could be updated at a much lower cost than a complete remodel and change to educational space.
