Traci Thorpe, Superintendent/CEO

Traci mentioned we all had a nice Christmas break. The guest at our recent B&I Breakfast Donnie Curfman with Continental Carbon. Met with staff from NWOSU to discuss the teacher education pathway. If a student has a paraprofessional they would have some credit toward teacher education. We are at a more computer-based experience for our Paramedic Training program. We were notified that we have been chosen as a PaceSetter School, again. Will be presenting about our instructional area planning instrument. We had our area Superintendent meeting this morning. We have combined this meeting with the OASA Region 4 Superintendents. We also had legislators there today and it was the largest attendance we've had so far. The ambulance simulator finally arrived (the last day before Christmas break). The second BPOC class started this week and has 6 students. We plan to have a May transition truck driver training program for high school students this summer. The conveners for Oklahoma Centers of Workforce Excellence met at Pioneer Tech. We are hoping there will be some money from the state. There are now 11 groups. Would like some money to use for Marketing other businesses. Recertification process - ODCTE, none yet. Max McKnight will be the lead. There are still some items left on the construction list. We are working on interviews for HR position and hosting the PC Chamber banquet on the 26th.

Molly Kyler, Executive Director, Business & Industry Services

Molly spoke about the Batter Than Good baking company that is now in the BIS Incubator. There are 3 potential incubator spaces and we have some who are working on business plans. Our students are doing more clinicals and we hosted our Christmas party in our new conference center. It was very nice. It is already a busy January.

United Way 2022-2023 Campaign results announced at 84th Annual Meeting

Community problems rarely originate from a single cause. Solving problems requires that everyone work together – schools, nonprofit organizations, foundations, city and state government, and businesses. This is the focus of United Way's work – bringing people together to create a vision for a healthy community and then to set goals, align programs, activities, strategies and partners, and then measure success by tracking and sharing data, stated Molly Kyler United Way president. Kyler spoke before 40 guests at the 84th United Way of North Central Oklahoma's annual meeting.

The United Way annual meeting and appreciation celebration held on Tuesday, January 24, 2023 at Pioneer Technology Center with those individuals and companies who helped make this year's United Way campaign a success as well as letting the community know about the sponsored programs and projects by United Way of North Central Oklahoma. Kyler acknowledged the partner agencies, their guests, United Way Board Members and the United Way team. United Way events and projects were highlighted during the presentation, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Medicare Part D Prescription Drug Plan, Ramp program, Medical Transportation program, RX for Oklahoma, Volunteer Income Tax Assistance, Imagination Library, OSU Community Wellness Programs and partnership with SingleCare, one thousand discount prescription cards were distributed in our community. Over $638,259 dollars have been saved since UW started distributing cards in 2005.

J. Berry Harrison, 2022-2023 campaign chair, reported to those assembled that $472,044 was raised and allocated to our partnering agencies, initiatives, and the United Way office. J. Berry Harrison recognized volunteers for their service and announced 2023 campaign chair, Erica Fetters with Dorada Foods.

Molly continued the meeting recognized was the Admissions and Allocation Committee, Bryanna Lewis, Committee Chair, Steve Kelley, Erica Fetters, Lynn Robinson, Corbin Dewitt, Anna George, Kisha Oakes, Kimberly Reusser, John Gonsalves, Cody Oldacre, Stephanie Garza, Megan Collom and Jacque O'Grady. These committee members spend countless hours reading agency program requests, financial statements and spend time visiting with agency staff and volunteers. After campaign ends, committee members discuss each program and make the recommendations to the United Way board of directors on funding for each agency.

Another committee recognized was the United Way Endowment Committee, Pat Mulligan, Committee Chair, Darin Hiatt, Sheryl Schmidtberger, Marc LaBossiere, Erin Liberton, Craig Poet and Molly Kyler. This committee administers all funds entrusted to the Endowment and coordinates the Planned Giving Program of UW. This was the eleventh year United Way was able to distribute grants to organizations here in Ponca City through the United Way Jesse and Barbara Manering Endowment Fund, since inception totaling $137,829.00.

Every year we give out a special award to a person or business that exemplifies their dedication to United Way, this year the award is going to an extremely dedicated individual of Ponca City. Our Friend of United Way award goes to Judy Rupp. Judy Rupp has continued to be a champion of United Way, Seniors in our area and our partnering agencies. Thank you for all that you do for our community and the residents on Kay County.

During this meeting, the reigns were passed to J. Berry Harrison to begin his presidency.

The United Way of North Central Oklahoma board of directors meets at noon, the second Tuesday of the month at the Pioneer Technology Center and all meetings are open to the public. For more information on becoming a member of the board, committee member or campaign volunteer, call 765-2476.

Pioneer Tech children's lab receives top accreditation

Press Release

PONCA CITY — The Pioneer Technology Center Children's Lab has once again received accreditation through the National Association for the Education of Young Children program. Oklahoma has only 53 early childhood programs that boast this accomplishment. This honor signifies high standards of early childhood education for the Children's Lab.

For nearly 90 years, NAEYC has worked to raise the quality of programs for all children from birth through age eight. A major part of the association's efforts is to improve early childhood education through different systems of accreditation for programs that are committed to meeting national standards of quality.

There are ten program standards and the framework of the standards and criteria focus on best practices in the field and the benefits to stakeholders in early childhood education. There are four groups of early childhood education stakeholders: children, teachers, family and community partners and the program administration.

Each of the ten standards falls under a category according to the early childhood education stakeholder. The majority of the standards focus on children — the most important stakeholders. The remainder of the ten standards focus on other stakeholders and the programmatic structure they build to support quality.

The PTC Children's Lab is a school within a school and it is open to everyone in the community. Their curriculum is implemented based on Oklahoma's State Department of Education Standards and Early Learning Guidelines, the regulations of the Department of Human Services (DHS), NAEYC standards and Oklahoma's Quality Rating and Improvement scale system. The facility boasts a 5-Star childcare center.

Children's Lab Coordinator, Lora Walton said, "We are so excited to receive this accreditation once again. This marks our 25th year of being an accredited program through NAEYC."

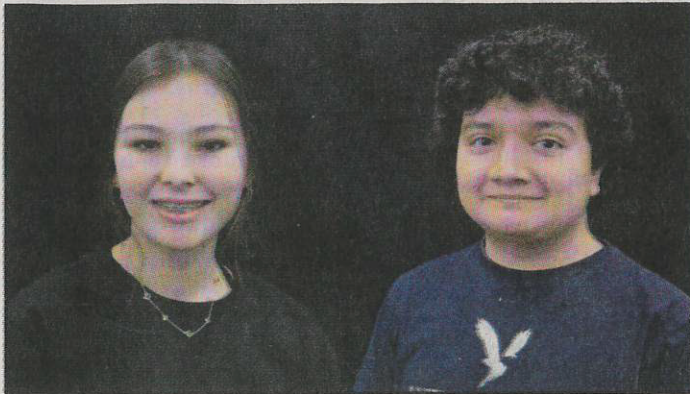

The PTC Children's Lab uses the biannual assessments to guide curriculum that is not only enriching but also engaging. They follow the Oklahoma Early Learning Guidelines which are standard for curriculum mandated by the Oklahoma State Board of Education. Regular hours for the lab are 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The center follows the Pioneer Tech calendar and is closed when classes are not in session and are open all summer. NCOCWE meeting at held at Pioneer Tech

By CALLEY LAMAR
calley@poncacitynews.com

North Central Oklahoma Center of Workforce Excellence (NCOCWE) held a legislative luncheon on Friday, Jan. 20 in Conference Center B at Pioneer Technology Center (PTC). NCOCWE Chair Garrett Bowers welcomed the assembled group of people from the fields of businesses, industry, education, economic development organizations, chambers of commerce, state agencies, tribes and government. NCOCWE is a consortium that engages in promoting growth opportunities for students and providing ample workforce to meet the ever-changing needs of regional businesses and industries.

Janet Schwabe shared the 2022 NCOCWE initiatives.

Schwabe began by sharing the primary focus industries, which were chosen by looking at the data and finding the largest employer bases.

In 2020, the largest employer base was in healthcare and construction, while high growth industries included transportation and material moving, manufacturing/production, and protective service.

In 2022, the largest employer base was in healthcare and manufacturing, and the high growth industries were transportation and warehousing, and manufacturing.

Government, retail trade, management of companies, and accommodation and food services were also in primary industries.

The goals of NCOCWE, and several of the items needed to achieve those goals, include some of the following:

1. To help individuals understand both the skills that are required by employers and how to prepare for success.

Initiatives include job shadowing, internships, career fairs/job fairs, certified apprenticeships, VR tours, STEM camps and other summer career academies.

- 100 student internships at Ponca City High School
- 98 work-based learning student participants at Pioneer Technology Center
- 10 internships at Northern Oklahoma College - Tonkawa annually
- Created a WBL guide for employers
- Ponca City Public Schools is building a STEM program with the passing of the recent bond issue

2. To help policy makers and stakeholders measure and close skill gaps that help individuals and businesses thrive.

Initiatives include data gathering from state and local entities/agencies, active communication and collaboration, advisory committee participation.

- Legislative luncheon with state and federal representatives, and regional employers

- Oklahoma Works workshops on worker training programs and Skillful Talent hiring

• Compiled asset map of available resources

• Identifying regional assets in the areas of education, transportation, quality of life, health care and recent capital investments to create an engaging and informative website and use in a digital marketing campaign

• Engaged the Department of Rehabilitation Services for employer resources

3. Respond to employers' most urgent needs.

Initiatives include personal visits to employers, job board postings, recruitment through career/job fairs, career pathways/degree programs offered in focus industries, specialized training programs

• Quarterly focused industry sector meetings (Transportation, Manufacturing, Retail, Healthcare, Education, Protective Service)

• Industry survey for workforce needs/challenges

• Manufacturing Day career exploration

• Hiring flowchart infographic

• Basic Peace Officer Certification, Biomedical Sciences Academy and Wind Energy Programs implemented in response to regional needs

• Exploring opportunities for apprenticeships in the trades industry and transportation (CDL)

Schwabe also identified several gaps in workforce including local branding, marketing and communication outreach to share the resources and what is trying to be accomplished in the community. This includes promoting the various programs and events, and highlighting successful workforce initiatives, as well as digital marketing program.

Other gaps include coordination of work-based learning opportunities for high school students across the region and in smaller communities.

While there are strong workforce programs in different pockets of this region, NCOCWE wants to establish a more unified and continual effort such as a short-term "Implementation Specialist" to perform business process analysis and optimization with support services planning and buildout.

The group was joined by legislative members including Tanner Roberts with Senator James Lankford's office, and Representative Ken Luttrell to discuss a variety of topics in the group's open forum.

Amongst the topics discussed, the fear for rural schools being able to maintain being well-funded as well as the looming presence of school vouchers. School vouchers use public funds set aside for a school district and allocate them toward a participating family in the form of a voucher to pay partial or full tuition for a child's private school.

Representative Luttrell shared that the Oklahoma House of Representatives was working to protect rural schools by having the vouchers have a population cap, thereby keeping them in Tulsa, Oklahoma and Cleveland Counties.

"We know and understand in the rural caucus in the House, that [vouchers] are bad for rural education," said Representative Luttrell. "We know that it is coming, and I think our task on that will be to protect common education in rural Oklahoma. Don't think we're going to roll over and take it, there will be a battle."

One of the problems with vouchers is that there is one general fund for common education in Oklahoma, and if the money goes out, then that will impact rural schools. The group also expressed worry that the vouchers could open up issues for attack including higher education.

The State Chamber has made efforts to show legislators what goes on in rural Oklahoma, with a group of legislators visiting Ponca City recently. A group of about 20 legislators from the House and Senate also toured the research facilities of Phillips 66 in Bartlesville on Thursday, Jan. 19.

It was suggested by the group that if vouchers are an inevitability, then the standards must be the same for accountability, testing, auditing and academic standards for all schools public and private in the state.

Another topic discussed marijuana in Oklahoma and grow operations. It was shared that the Wall Street Journal recently had an article about Oklahoma becoming the largest sources of black market weed in the country.

Concerns were also raised about some industries not wanting to come to Oklahoma due to the rampant unlicensed black market operations.

In Oklahoma, a grow operation must be at least 75% local ownership, however foreign and out-of-state investors have been paying Oklahoma residents to be "in name only" majority owners.

The legalization of recreational marijuana will come up with SQ 820 on the March 7, 2023 general ballot.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 26 at noon.

Pioneer Tech Children's Lab receives top accreditation

Ponca City, OK — The Pioneer Technology Center (PTC) Children's Lab has once again received accreditation through the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) program. Oklahoma has only 53 early childhood programs that boast this accomplishment. This honor signifies high standards of early childhood education for the Children's Lab.

For nearly 90 years, NAEYC has worked to raise the quality of programs for all children from birth through age eight. A major part of the association's efforts is to improve early childhood education through different systems of accreditation for programs that are committed to meeting national standards of quality.

There are ten program standards and the framework of the standards and criteria focus on best practices in the field and the benefits to stakeholders in early childhood education. There are four groups of early childhood education stakeholders: children, teachers, family and community partners, and the program administration.

Each of the ten standards falls under a category according to the early childhood education stakeholder. The majority of the standards focus on children—the most important stakeholders. The remainder of the ten standards focus on other stakeholders and the programmatic structure they build to support quality.

The PTC Children's Lab is a school within a school and it is open to everyone in the community. Their curriculum is implemented based on Oklahoma's State Department of Education Standards and Early Learning Guidelines, the regulations of the Department of Human Services (DHS), NAEYC standards and Oklahoma's Quality Rating and Improvement scale system. The facility boasts a 5-Star childcare center.

Children's Lab Coordinator, Lora Walton says, "We are so excited to receive this accreditation once again. This marks our 25th year of being an accredited program through NAEYC."

The PTC Children's Lab uses the biannual assessments to guide curriculum that is not only enriching but also engaging. They follow the Oklahoma Early Learning Guidelines which are standard for curriculum mandated by the Oklahoma State Board of Education. Regular hours for the lab are 7:30am to 4:30pm Monday through Friday. The center follows the Pioneer Tech calendar and is closed when classes are not in session and are open all summer. For more information about the PTC Children's Lab visit www.pioneertech.edu or call 718-4268.
